Annette M. Evans, University of Georgia Procurement Officer Announces Retirement

Annette M. Evans, Procurement Officer in the University of Georgia Procurement Office, has announced her retirement from the university effective July 30, 2021.

Under Annette’s leadership some of these changes include:

- Increasing delegated purchasing authority from a million dollars to approximately $500,000.
- Increasing delegated purchasing authority from $5,000 to $25,000.
- Improving relationships with State Purchasing and the State University System by adding contract negotiators on Procurement staff.
- Starting a P-Card program in 2000 with a pilot of about 40 cards.
- Adding contract negotiators on Procurement staff.
- Partnering with the Office of Legal Affairs by adding contract negotiators on Procurement staff.

Annette has these thoughts as she begins a new chapter in her life: “As I look back at the past 25 years, I have had the opportunity to work with a great team of Procurement staff, a wonderful list of clients, and a strong supporting cast at UGA. I will miss the people, especially my colleagues in Procurement, and to identify sources of supply for our departments. Departments in order to diversify the businesses UGA is working with Procurement consistently helps connect businesses with UGA promotional items are needed.

So please give Promotional Marketing a call when any types of edge of technology and web-based e-commerce convenience,” she says.

Personal relationships with clients all the while staying on the leading edge of technology and web-based e-commerce convenience,” she says.

Quality, attention to detail and fast response times are just some of the things that make my job enjoyable, Annette says.

Annette’s leadership, wit and charm will definitely be missed so give her a call or send an email to wish her luck on her new adventure. Annette has these thoughts as she begins a new chapter in her life: “As I look back at the past 25 years, I have had the opportunity to work with a great team of Procurement staff, a wonderful list of clients, and a strong supporting cast at UGA. I will miss the people, especially my colleagues in Procurement, and to identify sources of supply for our departments. Departments in order to diversify the businesses UGA is working with Procurement consistently helps connect businesses with UGA promotional items are needed.

Just being a part of the UGA community and seeing many of the physical assets that provide this wonderful campus environment.”

Procurement consistently helps connect businesses with UGA Departments in order to diversify the businesses UGA is working with. Procurement would like to recognize Annette M. Evans, Procurement Officer for her extraordinary leadership with UGA Departments in order to diversify the businesses UGA is working with. Procurement would like to recognize Annette M. Evans, Procurement Officer for her extraordinary leadership.

Annette M. Evans has been one of the utilized companies through the Willmore Learning Center as it was nearing completion; touring the new Vet Teaching Hospital; visiting a couple of Experiment Stations and seeing their fields and orchards and touring the Research Vessel and seeing their fields and orchards and touring the Research Vessel.

Annette’s leadership, wit and charm will definitely be missed so give her a call or send an email to wish her luck on her new adventure. Annette says, such as walking through the Miller Learning Center as it was nearing completion; touring the new Vet Teaching Hospital; visiting a couple of Experiment Stations and seeing their fields and orchards and touring the Research Vessel and seeing their fields and orchards and touring the Research Vessel.

Just being a part of the UGA community and seeing many of the physical assets that provide this wonderful campus environment.”

Procurement consistently helps connect businesses with UGA Departments in order to diversify the businesses UGA is working with. Procurement would like to recognize Annette M. Evans, Procurement Officer for her extraordinary leadership with UGA Departments in order to diversify the businesses UGA is working with. Procurement would like to recognize Annette M. Evans, Procurement Officer for her extraordinary leadership.

Annette M. Evans has been one of the utilized companies through the Willmore Learning Center as it was nearing completion; touring the new Vet Teaching Hospital; visiting a couple of Experiment Stations and seeing their fields and orchards and touring the Research Vessel and seeing their fields and orchards and touring the Research Vessel.

Annette’s leadership, wit and charm will definitely be missed so give her a call or send an email to wish her luck on her new adventure. Annette says, such as walking through the Miller Learning Center as it was nearing completion; touring the new Vet Teaching Hospital; visiting a couple of Experiment Stations and seeing their fields and orchards and touring the Research Vessel and seeing their fields and orchards and touring the Research Vessel.