Upcoming Campus Events

Saturday, June 8 - 8:00am to 12:00pm
Trial Gardens Public Open House
- UGA Trial Gardens

The Trial Gardens at the University of Georgia holds a Public Open House every year to let plant enthusiasts come together from our community and abroad to see some of the newest ornamental plant varieties that the world has to offer. One may also learn more through guided tours and volunteers and garden workers present to answer questions.

Cost: $5 recommended donation per family or individual is appreciated but not necessary for entry.

Saturday, June 29 - 5pm- ??
ACC Star Spangled Classic Fireworks Celebration
- Downtown Athens, on Clayton Street

Festival activities begin at 5:00pm in downtown along Clayton Street. There will be live music, children’s activities, and dessert vendors.

The fireworks are scheduled for approximately 9:30pm and will be launched from the Classic Center parking deck.

Cost: FREE

Enjoy your Jittery Joe’s gift cards!

Fridays are Jeans Days!

All jeans must be work appropriate (no rips, holes, etc.) and if you have Friday meetings with UGA leaders, the dress expectation is business casual.

Access to the mainframe will be removed June 30, 2019. In the coming months, several systems will be retired as their functionality has transitioned to the new OneSource systems. These include employee.uga.edu and WebDFS. Kronos was decommissioned on March 1, 2019. Data currently available on the mainframe via QMF will be archived in the Data Warehouse after June 30, 2019. The Data Warehouse archive will also include information from other legacy systems such as Kronos.

If you need access to this information after June 30, please submit a data request to the Office of Institutional Research through the following form: oir.uga.edu/datarequest/

Sarah Walls in Accounts Payable has rang the victory bell for completing her chemo treatments! We wish her continued good health and happiness.

Sanford Stadium opened for its first football game when UGA played Yale University in 1929. At the time of construction, the stadium held roughly 30,000 fans. Through many improvements over the decades the stadium now has a capacity of 92,746, which makes it one of the largest stadiums in the country. Earlier this year, it was announced that the field at the stadium will be dedicated to Vince Dooley. The new field is scheduled to be dedicated during the 2019 season and will be known as Dooley Field at Sanford Stadium.

While Sanford Stadium is mostly known for “Saturdays Between the Hedges,” the stadium has been used for other events. The Spring Undergraduate Commencement ceremony is held at Sanford each May, and the stadium also hosted men’s and women’s soccer games during the 1996 Olympics.
